PAY IT NEXT WEEK

Prompt payment of bills is one of the things necessary to keep the wheels of business moving smoothly. So large is the volume of credit business that delay in meeting bills must cause the whole machinery to clog up. The man from whom you buy your groceries and clothing must settle his accounts with the wholesale house and you put him up against great difficulties when you fail to pay him. The doctor, the dentist, the dress-maker, the plumber and every other person has bills to pay and all need the money you owe them. When you pay your bill it puts other people in a position to pay theirs and hence it is possible to have a general squaring up of accounts.

National Pay-Up Week is a plan that has been devised for securing a general settlement of accounts. It will be observed in Chickasha next week. This means that it is up to all of us to make a special effort to pay what we owe. It may be a big bill or just a little one. Perhaps it has been running for months or only for a short time. Often the collection of small bills involves as much labor and trouble as the collection of small sums. Make up your mind that you are going to pay promptly when the collector calls next week. The pay-up movement is one which should have the hearty support of everybody. By entering into the spirit of it, exercising your best efforts to meet all the obligations you owe, you will be helping to pass prosperity around and to put the business of the community on a better basis.

CUMMINGS CORRECTS CAMPAIGN CANARD

Senator Cummings, of Iowa, is a man who enjoys the respect of the country regardless of partisanship and he is also a Republican of unquestioned standing. The senator is also good authority on all legislation enacted by congress.

Recently Chairman Wilcox of the Republican committee took occasion to point out the "joker" in the child labor law recently enacted, declaring the measure to be a "fraud and a shame." Mr. Hughes, the candidate for president, has also sought to discredit the law.

Now comes Senator Cummings with a signed statement in which he flatly contradicts the charge of Wilcox, branding those who make such allegations as either insincere or incompetent. The Cummings statement, which is addressed to the secretary of the national child labor committee, says: "I have just read your letter of the 29th instant suggesting that certain critics of the recently enacted child labor law claim to have discovered a joker or jokers in the act which reflect upon either the integrity or intelligence of those who are responsible for its passage. These criticisms are without any foundation whatsoever and the persons who are giving them publicity are either insincere or incompetent."

In concluding his statement, Senator Cummings said:

"An honest examination of the Act will convince any person that it is just as effective as it could be made without such a disturbance in the commerce of innocent people as would have awakened a sentiment against the measure that would have brought about its speedy overthrow. I have reviewed again the entire subject and I am thoroughly persuaded that the act would effectuate the humane purposes toward which the friends of child labor legislation have for a long time been striving."

It must be somewhat humiliating to Mr. Hughes that a distinguished member of his own party feels called upon to correct the misrepresentations of his campaign manager. The fact that Mr. Hughes countenances such gross perversion of the truth by his spokesmen must serve to arouse doubts concerning all the partisan pleas he is making. Even though a man is "100 per cent a candidate," he may reasonably be expected to stick to facts in the presentation of his case.

There has been no ultimatum and no formal declarations of hostilities but just the same war is on tap in Oklahoma City and there's no telling where it is going to stop. Miss Edith Johnson, the gifted young woman who writes for the Oklahoman, has crossed swords with Rev. Burke Culpepper, an evangelist who is now operating there, on the dance question. The preacher is purported to have characterized the modern dance as "contemptible and vile," intimating that the devotees of it are heading straight for "hell and damnation." Styling the evangelist a "self-constituted 'St. Peter,'" Miss Johnson has handed him a choice collection of language which may afford him considerable "food for thought." Of course the preacher will come back but if his opponent is true to the traditions of her sex she will have the last word in the controversy. Tactically, the minister is at a disadvantage.

The shows that are to be given in Chickasha during carnival week have been seen at the state fair in Oklahoma City and in many other large cities. They are said to be attractions of great merit. We ought to make carnival week a big trade-getter for the merchants of the city. It can be done by proper publicity and united effort upon the part of the business men.

Whether the Greeks are willing to give the world any credit for it or not, it cannot be denied that full dinner pails in America are plentiful at the present moment.

Also, Khr. Constantine of Greece is another man who has anything but an easy job. You can hardly blame him for not wanting to be kicked into fighting.

Now comes another sad blow—cost of tobacco going up and they are going to cut out the six-for-a-quitter deal. However, we can still smoke stogies.

The carpenters are so busy in Chickasha that it looks like we are going to be compelled to ask the governor to call a special session of the legislature to get one of them to put a shingle or two on our roof.

A Marathon. They are holding a mid-year examination in one of the schools. The subject was geography. One of the questions was, "What is the equator?" "The equator," read the answer of a nine-year-old boy, "is a menagerie lion running round the center of the earth."

The Old Saying. During a history examination one question asked by the teacher was: "When was Rome built?" The first to answer was a youngster near the front, and his response was: "At night."

"At night?" repeated the astonished instructor. "How in the world did you get such an idea as that?"

"Why, I've often heard my dad say that Rome wasn't built in a day," said the boy.

SCRIPTURE.

Isaiah 54:1-7.

Sing, O barren, thou that didst not bear; break forth into singing, and cry aloud thou that didst not travail with child: for more are the children of the desolate than the children of the married wife, saith the Lord.

Enlarge the place of thy tent, and let them stretch forth the curtains of thine habitations, spare not, lengthen thy cords, and strengthen thy stakes; For thou shalt break forth on the right hand and on the left; and thy seed shall inherit the Gentiles, and make the desolate cities to be inhabited.

Fear not; for thou shalt not be ashamed: neither thou be comforted; for thou shalt not be put to shame; for thou shalt forget the shame of thy youth, and shalt not remember the reproach of thy widowhood any more.

For thy Maker is thine husband; the Lord of hosts is his name; and thy Redeemer the Holy One of Israel; The God of the whole earth shall he be called.

For the Lord hath called thee as a woman forsaken and grieved in spirit, and a wife of youth, when thou wast refused, saith thy God.

For a small moment have I forsaken thee; but with great mercies will I gather thee.

COMFORT

I like to sit and dream and smoke to pay the revenue that helps the government to run as a patriot should do. I like to see the smoke curl up above my old bald head and dream of wonders that will come long after I am dead. There's comfort in a good cigar when the work of day is done and the shades of night steal over with the setting of the sun.

My wife, she often chides me about the cost and such, then I quietly keep puffing and do not mind her much. It soothes my nerves and temper, and prevents a family row when I sit and dream and smoke behind a good cigar. —By the Washita Bard.

STOP THE FIRST COLD

A cold does not get well of itself. The process of wearing out a cold wears you out, and your cough becomes serious if neglected. Hacking coughs drain the energy and sap the vitality. For 17 years the happy combination of soothing antiseptic balsams in Dr. King's New Discovery has healed coughs and relieved congestion. Young and old can testify to the effectiveness of Dr. King's New Discovery for coughs and colds. Buy a bottle today at your druggist, 50c.—Adv.

Responsibility for Good Service

GOOD telephone service depends not only upon the telephone equipment, the skill and intelligence of the telephone employees, but also to a greater degree upon the co-operation of the telephone users. The person calling assists in obtaining good service by always being sure to give the operator the right number.

The operator assists by answering the caller's signal promptly and by quickly and accurately making the desired connection.

The person called co-operates for good service by answering promptly, and each one helps materially by speaking distinctly and by practicing courtesy and patience under all conditions.
